This posting

This posting will be used to fill 1 permanent full-time position working 75 hours biweekly. It will establish a 12-month eligibility list which may also be used to fill future permanent and term positions.

This job is based in the thriving and diverse city of Whitehorse in the beautiful Yukon.

Who we are

The Yukon Healthy Living Program (YHLP), is a collaborative care team that supports Yukoners living with chronic health conditions. Support is provided in the form of one-on-one and group programs and services that are accessible throughout the territory, including the use of virtual care platforms to support rural communities. Members of our team collaborate in a clinical setting to empower clients and families to self-manage chronic conditions while also supporting our program goals through the provision of high quality, collaborative chronic care, and effective and accessible self-management support.

Your role

As a Clinical Diabetes Educator, you will form an integral part of our team by providing quality, planned, proactive, person-centered chronic disease management (CDM) within the Yukon Healthy Living Program (YHLP). CDM activities include client assessments, determining chronic conditions risk factors, clinical care, education (one-on-one & group), self-management support, as well as care-giver support and education. Additional responsibilities include facilitating knowledge translation initiatives for clients, caregivers, and allied health professionals to enhance understanding and build capacity in diabetes care, providing mentorship and educational support related to diabetes management best practices. Working collaboratively as a member of the YHLP team, you will coordinate client-centered plans and support program goals through the provision of high-quality, collaborative chronic disease care, fostering culturally safe, respectful and inclusive care environments that support diverse populations and community needs.
